Alvin participated in an advertising mentorship program put on by my agency The Woo. The program was designed specifically for high schoolers to learn and participate in the research and development of an advertising campaign for a current client over a period of several weeks. While we had varying degrees of participation from the cohort of students, from the onset, Alvin demonstrated an intense curiosity and always took the initiative when it came to leadership amongst his group. He listened intently to program mentors, internalized the information they shared and was the first to ask thoughtful questions which benefitted the group overall. Alvin showed himself to be an energetic, persistent student who was always focused on expanding his understanding of a topic and his connections with others. He clearly enjoyed working within a team dynamic and proved to be generous learner by sharing his thoughts and eliciting input from others in order to creatively problem solve. In the presentation of his group's campaign to our client, Alvin's passion for the work he and the team developed was clearly evident in all aspects - research, strategy and creative development - and set a very high bar. It is this level of participation that makes the program so fulfilling for everyone involved. I have no doubt that Alvin will thrive in any endeavor he pursues and I look forward to following his continued growth and success!

Alvin is an exceptionally dedicated, proactive, energetic, and determined individual who thrives on continuous learning and leadership. As his CS instructor, I admired how he constantly sought out ways to develop his skills and elevate the quality of his work. It's been exciting to follow his journey after graduation and watch him apply that same passion to emerging opportunities in STEM and business!

Alvin played a crucial role in making my experience as a panelist at Merced 2 Market 2025 seamless and enjoyable. He showed true dedication to amplifying the voices of entrepreneurs within the UC system and creating opportunities for others interested in following a similar path. As an energetic and thoughtful host, Alvin kept the panel engaging and ensured everything ran smoothly from start to finish.

Alvin is such a bright mind that I am fortunate to have met during his time at Da Vinci Highschool! As a member of DECA he has shined brightly and paved a path for other student leaders to follow and admire.

He has now taken his talents as a dual major in engineering and business Econ. and I'm grateful to continue to keep in touch with him.

His devotion to the greater good makes him an invaluable asset to have on anyone's team.

I met Alvin when he was assisting at a UC intellectual property conference where he took care of many of the conference's logistics. At dinner, Alvin approached me and several attendees, including attorneys and venture capital managers, to ask about our career paths. His questions were substantive and the conversations with him demonstrated that he had genuine interest in the conference and his own career. I give Alvin my recommendation as his attitude and initiative will take him far and will benefit those who work with him.

There's not much else I can say that Alvin hasn't showcased himself. He's an excellent worker, leader, team-player, and individual. He's constantly on-top of his tasks and dares to challenge the standard. He pushes the limits to everyone's expectations 24/7, to the point where he's practically inhumane.

Everyone needs an Alvin in their life, no matter the circumstances. I highly recommend him for ANY position because he's always passionate within' everything he does, and excels at his craft.

I applaud Alvin for a majority of things, he exceeds all expectations and never fails to give his all in projects and assignments. Alvin was the definition of a 'perfect student', and as his fellow peer, I have always noticed his dedication. Alvin doesn't hesitate to take control of conversations or group projects, he is a natural leader.

Specifically during our time shared in DECA, Alvin served as one of the Chapter Leaders. In DECA, I noticed how Alvin would always make sure the members were on task, paid attention, and answered any questions they might have. He was skilled in the knowledge of Marketing to provide feedback to others, and create small lectures.

Alvin constantly puts out his best quality of work, he is one of the most dedicated person I ever had the pleasure to meet.

I am pleased to have the ability to recommend Mr. Alvin Liu. He is an amazing and ambitious leader who always wants the best for others.
Of my years that I've known him, he is easily the best person for leadership and has an amazing personality. In any position that he assumes, he preforms phenomenally whether it be as a hard worker, or a leader. Alvin's ambition and his goals will definitely help him achieve further success in life. He excels in his marketing and computer science courses and related activites within the class. He is a unyielding worker and will not stop until he achieves and outperforms himself. As an individual he carries himself and concern for others is inspiring.
Confidently, I can say he is the best leader and is an amazing influence to others I have ever encountered. Any groups or organization(s) would be fortunate to have him; an amazing asset in both individual and team activities. Utilizing effective communications, and constantly improving himself, I would advise to closely follow his stunning progress as that allows him to grow exponentially. What I appreciate about Alvin is his ability to reach out to activities and obstacles that are presented to him, and to use those as learning opportunities. In the past year alone, I witnessed his growth in various fields, one being DECA (a school organization which prepares emerging leaders and entrepreneurs in various fields) which in his first year at CA-SCDC (State Career Development Conference) he was reconized as a finalist and in his presentation skills and assets. He excels at motivating and guiding his peers and is positive in every aspect. He is an amazing person with so many amazing qualities that will make him succeed in the future.

His experience, knowledge, and character will lead him to the better and the greater future. Alvin Liu is an amazing person and I have no doubts that he will achieve the best and his character will continue to Alvin has done a lot to display his character within the last year. He joined DECA, which, to my knowledge, does presentations to market to companies. This displays that he is good at presenting and communicating. Additionally, he would say "hi" to people in the hallways, which, for me, adds to the environment. Third, he showed this by coming to the 10&12 grade exhibition in a suit. He wanted to see what he would do next year & he presented himself very professionally. Lastly, he advertised a server he made around the school. This is notable to me because it shows that wasn't scared to try. He is genuinely an amazing connection.
